- 1. WikiLeaks Since 2010 Suzie has supported, promoted and shared content related to WikiLeaks and Julian Assange on social media. In 2011 Suzie started reporting on events related to WikiLeaks and Manning for the Occupy NZ media team blog 'Occupy Savvy'. In 2014 WikiLeaks followed Suzie and began sharing her reporting on events that were occurring in New Zealand and has continued to circulate her journalism each year since. Suzie's long-form articles and interview appearances were regularly shared by Julian Assange up until his silencing in 2018, when Ecuador cut off his internet
- 2. #Unity4J Suzie is a co-founder of Unity4J, an organisation that engaged with nearly 100 high profile figures and thousands of citizens around the globe to advocate for the freedom of Julian Assange
- 3. #JA4Me The first campaign that Suzie founded to support Julian Assange, upon which Unity4J was later modelled off
- 4. Occupy NZ Media Suzie joined the Occupy NZ group in September 2011 and the Occupy Auckland media team in October 2011. She was a co-founder of the media team blog 'Occupy Savvy' and regularly live-tweeted at actions and events on the ground, including the evictions of the four sites of occupation in her city. She was a part of the team that nationally exposed the presence of police officers with fake badge numbers operating at the evictions of the occupations
- 5. Internet Party Suzie was in communication with internet entrepreneur Kim Dotcom years before the founding of the Internet Party and supported and promoted its launch. She covered Party events live, gained exclusive interviews with key Party leaders, and her work was shared by them on social media. In 2017 Suzie was invited to be the new Party Leader of the Internet Party, and stood for the NZ General Election as the #1 List Candidate, while in exile. She currently serves as the Party President
- 6. #SaveGI A campaign to oppose seizures of state homes by the government. Suzie live-tweeted at events, providing media support as state housing tenants and activists were beaten and arrested by police
- 7. #ANFS The 'Aotearoa Is Not For Sale' Campaign against privatisation/asset sales in New Zealand. Suzie live-tweeted from the ground at action days, shot live video and blogged about the events

8. #TPPANOway Suzie was a social media admin for 'It's Our Future New Zealand', the movement founded by Auckland University Law Professor Dr. Jane Kelsey to fight against the Trans-Pacific Partnership Agreement - which was a transnational corporate power grab. Along with another member of the Occupy NZ media team, Suzie co-founded the hashtag #TPPANOway (now infamous in New Zealand) and it trended at #2 worldwide on Twitter. Suzie covered and helped promote live events, conducted interviews, and blogged about the movement, which spread nationwide

9. TTIP (Berlin) During Suzie's stay in Berlin, Suzie participated in the opposition to the European version of the TPP, known as TTIP. She shot incredible live video of a mass action (250k people) live, and her reporting was published on Mintpress News

10. Dirty Politics In 2014, Kiwi investigative journalist Nicky Hager published his seminal book on political corruption in New Zealand "Dirty Politics". Suzie covered live promotional events. Suzie was aggregating media about, and reporting on, the major unfolding political scandal.

11. Anti-Drones Suzie was a Facebook admin for the international group Occupy Drone Warfare. She filed an OIA request with the New Zealand Police which ultimately confirmed that police drone Operations in New Zealand were being outsourced to private, for-profit, unaccountable companies.

12. FBI In NZ In 2012 Suzie's long-form journalism about the FBI's incursion into New Zealand during the raids on Kim Dotcom's mansion (January 20th, 2012) and the raids of Occupy Auckland (January 23rd and January 26th, 2012) was picked up and published by the Occupy Oakland media team on their official blog. Oakland had the second largest, most well-known and targeted occupation in the world.

13. #GCSB Suzie was the #1 social media influencer on this iconic New Zealand hashtag, which was named after the Government Security Communications Bureau (GCSB), New Zealand's version of the US's NSA. She worked full time to gain buy-in from high profile NZ figures to oppose the GCSB sending the hashtag viral in New Zealand, where it trended at #1 for weeks and clocked over 50,000 tweets. She covered public campaign meetings and live events, and conducted video interviews.

14. #MOT Event Suzie promoted the 2014 event ‘The Moment of Truth’ (#MoT), appearing on Australian radio and authoring and circulating media resources. The event featured Kim Dotcom, Edward Snowden, Julian Assange and Glenn Greenwald, and was an expose on the New Zealand government’s complicity in mass surveillance. Suzie covered the event live and gained exclusive video content on the night

15. Panama Papers NZ While not one of the official collaborating journalists, Suzie unearthed new implications concerning New Zealand’s then-Prime Minister John Key and his lawyers in the Panama Papers scandal and began her own investigation, making multiple new findings of damning information

16. #AntiSpyBill During the 2017 election campaign, Suzie pioneered an online event series deemed the AntiSpyBill, to draft citizens-initiated legislation against illegal and immoral practices of state intelligence agencies and their contractors. Each episode featured whistleblowers, ex intelligence officials and anti-surveillance activists from around the world

17. #DecipherYou In late 2017 Suzie launched Decipher You, becoming the first journalist in the world to analyse Snowden documents live online. Across the course of 35 episodes, she poured over 1000s of documents from the historic 2013 leak, making unique findings and publishing them

18. #1vs5i In 2019 Suzie kicked off the #1vs5i campaign to crowd-source funding to launch lawsuits to hold the intelligence agencies who had targeted her for her journalism and activism, to account. As part of the campaign, she filmed 10 live episodes of ‘Opening The Five Eyes: Exposing The Spies’, examining key documents from Snowden and WikiLeaks files as well as from open source spy texts

19. Free Schapelle Outraged by the draconian prison sentence awarded to Schapelle Corby, a young, Australian woman in Indonesia, Suzie formed an Auckland chapter of the movement to free her and held a series of candlelight vigils to raise awareness about her plight.

20. Roastbusters The ‘Roastbusters’ scandal is one of New Zealand’s most egregious cases of police misconduct, leaving 35+ teenage girls devastated by the failure of Police to arrest or charge a group of self-admitted pack rapists. One of the rapists is the nephew of a police officer, and another is the son of a local celebrity. Suzie covered a series of actions calling to hold the Police and the rapists to account, speaking out personally against Police malpractices in handling complaints, and the response of then-Police Minister Anne Tolley.

21. #OilFreeSeas Suzie supported the Greenpeace New Zealand OilFreeSeas campaign against offshore deep sea oil drilling by international oil exploration companies. She attended and covered events, live-tweeting and capturing photo and video footage for circulation on social media

22. #NZ4Gaza Suzie and a fellow media team member devised the hashtag #NZ4Gaza to build a digital campaign for, and better support, pro-Palestinian activists in New Zealand who were devastated by Israel’s bombing campaign of 2014 that was killing hundreds of innocent men, women and children. Suzie reported on events live, capturing photographs, interviews and video, and blogging about what was occurring. Her coverage was picked up on multiple occasions by RT.com and others

23. #AAAP For a number of years Suzie supported and attended events held by Auckland Action Against Poverty (AAAP), including several with very large police presences. Suzie live-tweeted, took photographs, got exclusive interviews and video, and wrote the truth about what was occurring

The above is not a complete list of all actions, events or topics covered by Suzie in the course of her journalism. Single instance events or topics are not being listed here; only issues that were sustained, significant or that may be chronologically relevant to her experience of being targeted were included.
